Controller Expertise to Accelerate Results

The controllership function is the cornerstone of both the financial reporting and internal control infrastructure. Yet all too often, the controllership does not function well enough to meet the needs of the business.

Many controllers are overwhelmed by regulatory requirements, causing performance to suffer. Turnover among controllers is at record levels, and the impact of such a departure can be devastating to the business.

We leverage the expertise of nearly 1,000 partners and professionals across the country to help you accelerate business success and create more value. Mitigating the Risk of a Controller Departure

In today's business world, a controller departure is an immediate crisis, with profound implications for your business. It causes a void in management that affects financial commitments, reporting requirements, mission-critical initiatives and strategy execution—not to mention your company's reputation.

Tatum can provide on-demand leadership via a select team of local and national financial professionals. Our hands-on experience includes:

- Companies of any size, from small and emerging through multi-billion dollar organizations
- Public and private companies
- The full spectrum of industries

Transaction Support

Few activities are as challenging as conducting a major financial transaction. Whether your organization is seeking funding, preparing for an IPO or pursuing an acquisition, leadership and staff are strained trying to sustain daily activities and absorb other critical activities like due diligence, compliance readiness or post-merger integration. Tatum has the controller services to immediately support the type of transaction you are undertaking, helping your team accomplish the transaction successfully.

Financial Reporting

Reporting challenges are extremely common in today's market, and Tatum will work with you to develop the processes you need to make financial reporting efficient. Tatum brings you expertise, managing urgent projects like:

- Financial modeling
- SEC filings
- Budgeting
- Forecasting
- Restatements
- Cash flow analysis
- Debt covenant analysis
- Corporate performance management

We can even help you select and implement financial systems to ensure your organization has quality financial information on an ongoing basis.

Staff Augmentation

Given the increasing expectations facing the office of the controller, it is hardly surprising when a single person does not possess the expertise or resources to manage all deliverables and carry-out all functional duties. Tatum can augment internal management to establish and lead best practices, as well as fundamental baselines, in a company of any size. This allows your controller to turn his/her attention to alternative tasks, knowing the "bench strength" is sound.
